Foes Plan Test for Goldwater Over Platform

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton's backers appeared today to be laying the groundwork for a GOP convention platform fight to test the solidity of Sen. Barry Goldwater's presidential delegate strength.

Although no final decision is reported to have been made on such a maneuver, Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., already has canvassed platform views of a group of liberal Republican House members of the convention committee.

And Henry Cabot Lodge has tossed off some hints that a platform fight might provide the basis for the kind of test on which Scranton's backers may have to rely in their efforts to shake loose some of the convention votes now publicly committed to Goldwater for the nomination.

If any such battle is carried to the convention floor, Michigan Gov. George Romney is regarded as certain to align himself with Scranton's supporters. Romney, whose state casts 48 votes, has said he will not release those pledged to him on the first ballot.

Most Republican leaders think that only a statement on civil rights that went far beyond approval of the bill Congress is about to pass and pledges to enforce it could stir up a major convention controversy.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., who heads the platform committee, has said that its provisions should be fought out within his group. But dissidents could bring a minority report to the floor if they chose.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who will place Goldwater's name in nomination, predicted in an interview that if such a minority report materializes it will get short shrift in the convention.

He said he doesn't believe anything the Scranton forces can do will keep Goldwater from getting the nomination. "This thing has gone too far," he said. "Barry Goldwater has won his spurs in the party. He was the one who went out in fair weather and foul to help rebuild it and the party won't forget that."

Negro Youth Found Dead in Woods

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A Negro boy found hanged in a wooded area was identified by his father today as Jerry Maxey 14, "a kid who wouldn't bother anybody."

The father, Robert Maxey, 41, a mail porter at Atlanta Terminal, said he was sure his son had been murdered. "He wasn't despondent in any way," Maxey said. "He was a happy little boy. He wouldn't have killed himself."

The boy was one of four sons of Maxey and his wife. They also have four daughters. The family lives about a mile from where the body was found Wednesday hanging from a tree in a northwest Atlanta urban renewal area.

Dr. Henry Snell, assistant Fulton County medical examiner, said the boy had been dead about eight hours when found. He placed the time of death at about noon.

The wooded area, about eight blocks from the nearest occupied house, is being cleared under an urban renewal program. It is a fringe area with both white and Negro residents, but officers said no disturbances have occurred there.

Malvern to Get New Industry

MALVERN, Ark. (AP) — Givenville Rhodes, president of the Malvern Industrial development Corporation, said Wednesday Malvern will get a new $4 million industry.

He said Ozark File, Inc., will operate an aluminum foil rolling mill in a building formerly occupied by International Shoe Co. Ozark File is owned by Highland Manufacturing Co. of Highland, Ill. Hamilton Manufacturing Co. of Richmond, Va. and Byoertown Packaging Service Co. of Byoertown, Pa.

The plant will be financed by Act 9 revenue bonds and Amendment 49 bonds.

It is estimated the plant can be in operation in 9-12 months.

Union Loses Certification on Race Stand

WASHINGTON (AP)—Breaking historic ground, the National Labor Relations Board found an union guilty of racial discrimination today and stripped it of its certification.

In a broad opinion with possible national impact the majority decision said whenever a union causes discrimination based on race it has committed an unfair labor practice.

The action—the first of its kind by the NLRB—was against the Independent Metal Workers Union, which maintained separate locals for white and Negro members at Hughes Tool Co. in Houston, Tex.

The case involved the complaint of a member of the Negro local whose application for apprenticeship available only to white members was rejected by the union.

The five-member board's decision to revoke certification on grounds of illegal coercion was unanimous, although two members gave more limited reasons for their finding.

The minority said Congress never intended the National Labor Relations Act to deal with racial discrimination except when based on union membership, as in this case.

The majority opinion was by members Boyd Leedom, Gerald A. Brown and Howard Jenkins Jr. Chairman Frank W. McCulloch and member John H. Fanning wrote the minority view.

The majority said the union's refusal to process the grievance of the Negro member, Ivory Davis, because of his race amounted to refusal to bargain collectively with the employer. The revocation of the union's official certification means that another union may petition for certification at the plant.

Traveled 100,000 Miles at Sea and Was Never Out of Sight of Statue of Liberty

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—In 100,000 miles at sea Capt. George Clancy has never been out of sight of the Statue of Liberty.

In the last 17 years he has made 40,000 round trips from Battery Park to the statue, and brought more than 10 million tourists to see her.

He even met aboard his ship—and later married—the daughter of the National Park Service superintendent who cares for the Statue of Liberty.

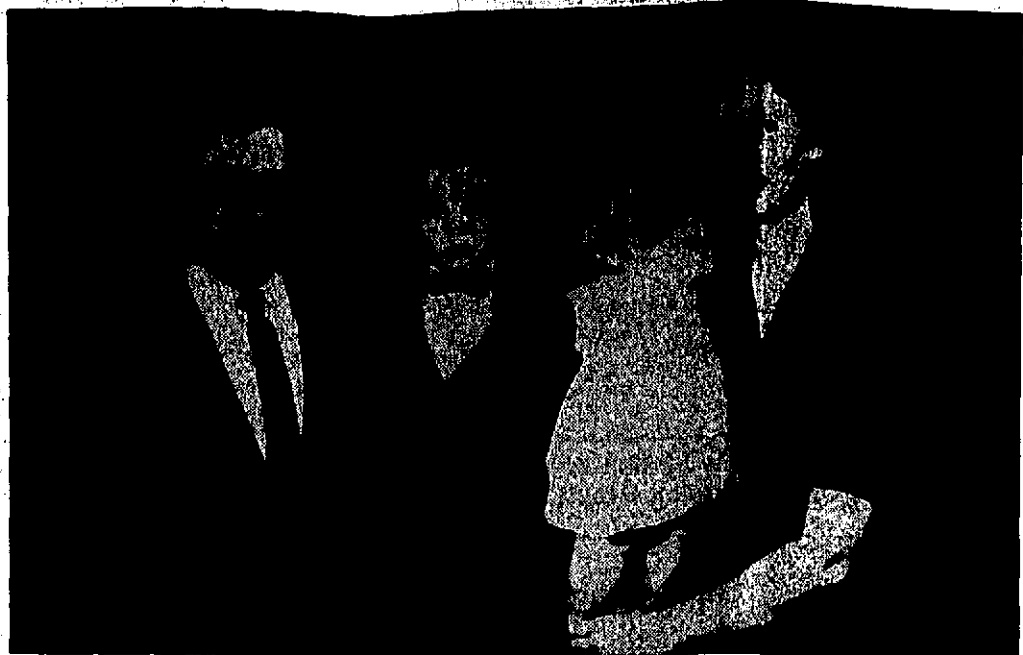

But Capt. Clancy has never been inside the monument himself.

"I've never had a chance," explained the cherry little Irish skipper. "As soon as I get there, I have to turn around and come back. I'll do it when I retire."

But the great copper lady with the torch remains a dominant interest in the 54-year-old pilot's life. He feels that in a way he "owns a piece" of her. One of his most cherished possessions is a small piece of metal cut from the statue's base during renovation work several years ago.

And he never tires of watching the emotional reactions of his passengers on viewing the great monument that has symbolized American freedom to so many millions of arriving immigrants.

Burrow said in a radio interview that he had been campaigning actively in northeast Arkansas.

Burrow said if elected he would increase welfare grants by at least 50 per cent, would build farm-to-market roads and raise the educational standards. "I will do this with tax savings I can effect when I pitch those politicians and big millionaires out of the capitol at Little Rock," Burrow said.

Senate Acts to Increase Its Own Pay

by JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate completes action today on a $64-million federal pay raise bill after voting to retain it a $7,500 — yearly increase for each member of Congress.

The senators beat down three efforts Wednesday to strike out the increases for senators and representatives.

There is little likelihood, however, that the measure will reach President Johnson for signing before Congress recesses for the Republican National Convention, which begins July 13 in San Francisco.

The House is scheduled to begin its convention recess at the end of this week.

In the three key votes Wednesday, the Senate: Defeated 60 to 25 an amendment of Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., to knock out the $4.1-million raises for the 100 senators and 435 House members.

Turned back 64 to 21 a proposal of Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, to delete $20.8 million in pay increases for members of Congress and their staffs, federal executives and U.S. judges.

Rejected 53 to 32 an amendment of Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., to eliminate the $9.6-million of increases for senators and representatives and their staffs.

Proxmire conceded he was "having trouble with my wife on this issue," but said no sound arguments had been advanced for raising congressional pay from $22,500 to $30,000.

"All we know full well it doesn't make any increase to get compensation for Congress. We have too much competition now."

Estimate of Budget Never Accurate

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst.

NEW YORK (AP) — The rush to hail all the economic records set in the first half of the year has hidden some of the late June and early July rites that go on year after year with little change.

The legal federal debt limit has been raised again, and at the last moment. The debt already had gone up. Congress made it legal for the Treasury to live with the accomplished fact.

Federal excise taxes on a limited list of items have been extended another year. These temporary rates have been continued each June for a decade.

Treasury statisticians are busy working on the books of the fiscal year that has just ended and will report soon. As usual, even inevitable, the actual spending and the actual receipts won't match the estimates made when the budget was presented 18 months ago, nor the revised estimates given Congress six months ago.

As in almost every year for decades the final result will be a deficit, with outgo topping income. That is why the federal debt keeps going up.

This has its counterpart in many family budgets and explains why the total of consumer debt also rises with predictable regularity.

Statisticians are quick to point out that there is nothing necessarily alarming in any of this.

The economy is growing. Along with it, the spending of consumers and of government increases. So the private and public debt goes up. Combined it exceeds a trillion dollars. But assets are even higher.

Nor is there anything unprecedented about Congress being reluctant to relinquish any tax or higher rate, however temporary may be its label. Congress has continued for one more year the $1.9-billion in federal excise taxes on jewelry, cosmetics, furs, luggage, liquor, cigarettes, autos, local phone calls and airplane tickets. The rates were set during the Korean War as a temporary measure.

Congress also likes to keep a legal limit on the federal debt, although the real one of $312 billion at the moment is far above the basic limit of $285 billion. This base has been exceeded by regular temporary boostings of the ceiling.

U.S. in Sharp Reply to Russia on Atom Force

By DORIAN FALK

GENEVA (AP) — In a sharp reply to the Soviet Union, the United States said today the planned Western Allies' multinational nuclear forces is designed only to protect Western Europe against the Soviet nuclear threat.

U.S. delegate William C. Foster defended the Western project against a new Soviet attack in the 17-nation disarmament talks. Foster said a spread of nuclear weapons in the world was the only alternative to the seaborne nuclear force.

Foster blamed the Soviet Union for using "groundless political arguments against the nuclear force in the pursuit of its longstanding aim to disrupt defensive arrangements of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin declared earlier that all efforts for an East-West agreement to stop the spread of nuclear arms will break down unless the United States renounces the nuclear force plan quickly.

Foster told the meeting that the force of ships armed with nuclear weapons is being devised "to enable members of NATO to cope with a range of threats."

"We believe that so long as hundreds of Soviet nuclear-tipped rockets are arrayed against Europe," he continued, "effective European participation in strategic deterrence should be provided."

"The arrangements contemplated for the multinational force would not increase the number of independent nuclear weapon capabilities and are thus consistent with our objective of preventing the spread of such capabilities."

Demanding that the Western nations junk the multinational nuclear force, Zorin declared: "The time of choice has come for the Western powers — the NATO members."

"If you really want a solution of the problem—and life imperatively demands its speediest solution—you must renounce the plan for the creation of the NATO multilateral nuclear force."

Congressional Fight on Rights Bill Is Over

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress finally completed action on the civil rights bill today as the House passed the historic measure and sent it to the White House to be signed into law.

House approval of the Senate-passed bill brought to an end a year-long legislative struggle conducted against a background of rising racial tensions.

President Johnson is expected to sign the bill quickly in hopes its bars against discrimination will help ease the pressure of civil rights demonstrations, and countermeasures taken to oppose them.

Negro leaders have promised a quick test of some of the bill's provisions, and some Southern members of Congress have predicted the first results of its passage will be increased violence, not a lessening of it.

The House originally passed its own version of the bill last February, 289, to 126. In the Senate, Southerners battled the bill with a three-months debate but on June 19 the Senate finally passed it 72 to 27 in a revised form. That sent the bill back to the House.

There was talk at one time that the President would sign the bill with a big ceremony on July 4—Independence Day, but the White House decided instead on quick action.

Presidential press secretary George E. Reedy said that Johnson conferred with House Speaker John W. McCormack and other House officers and "plans to sign it as soon as it gets down here." He said that it "looks like there will be a statement and ceremony early this evening."

Radio and television networks will be offered the opportunity for live coverage of the event, Reedy said.

In speaking of early evening, Reedy apparently meant the period beyond 6 p.m.

For more than a year the bill was the subject of intensive negotiating in both the House and Senate before it finally emerged as a compromise package supported by Democratic and Republican leaders in Congress.

The bill wraps into one big bundle number of measures designed to help Negroes achieve equality in nearly all phases of national life into which the federal government can reach.

It bars discrimination in employment practices—by both unions and employers—and in hotels, motels, restaurants, movies, and other places serving the public. It arms the government with powers to cut off federal funds for programs in which discrimination occurs.

It also grants new powers to the attorney general to speed desegregation of public schools and other public facilities, such as parks, playgrounds and libraries.

It tightens provisions contained in the first civil rights law passed this century—in 1957—aimed at protecting Negro voting rights.

It also creates a community provide machinery for voluntary settlement of racial disputes through mediation and conciliation. And it extends for four years the life of the Civil Rights Commission, with added powers.

All but one of the provisions—that dealing with discrimination in employment—take effect as soon as the bill is signed by the President. But many others have built-in delays intended to give state and local authorities a chance to settle complaints arising under the new law.

We drove back to Cornwell without talking.

"Want to do me a favor?" I asked as we drove down the street to his bar. Nick Potti was still parked there.

"Sure. What?"

"Drive around in the back where you were parked before. Then trade cars with me for a couple of hours."

"All right," he said.

I slid down to the floor out of sight and we drove in and around to the back. I gave him my keys and I drove ahead and out of the driveway and took off. I watched the rear-view mirror, but Nick Potti stayed where he was. There was no guarantee that he would continue to stay there. I took a round-about way and went back to my hotel. I dug into my suitcase and took out my spare gun. It was a tiny four-shot derringer. I'd had a gunsmith make over so that it now fired .32 caliber shells. I checked it and then strapped its holster around my leg, under my trousers, and put the gun in it. I went out again. I drove down Route 32 until I reached Blake's Inn and pulled in. I walked over and knocked on the door. I saw him looking out the window, and then he opened the door about an inch.

"I'm sorry," he said. "I told you that I'm supposed to be closed. The only reason I let you in before was because Eddie's a friend of mine."

I put my foot in the door before he could close it. "I'm the reason," I said, "that Jerry Dell tried to kill you. You'd better let me come in and talk to you."

Suddenly he looked tired. He opened the door and I stepped inside. I followed him into the bar.

"I thought you said you wasn't a cop," he said.

"I'm not. I work for an insurance company. We have to pay a million dollars the day you're declared legally dead. That's a lot of money."

"I don't have any insurance," he said. He was making a last stand, but his heart wasn't in it.

"Tom Blake may not, but Tom Rako does."

"You think you're going to take me back?" he said.

"If you're smart, Rako, you'll take yourself back."

"Why?"

"You won't be facing very much. Contempt of Congress is only one year. You can probably bargain your way out of that by telling what you know about Johnny Clark. You might even be able to make a deal on the bigamy charge. None of those are as serious as the alternative."

"What's that?"

"Johnny Clark sent Jerry Dell to kill you if I got too close. So you got Jerry, but Nick Potti is already in the neighborhood. Maybe you can kill him. Clark will send another one and another one and another one until somebody gets you."

"I'm going to call Johnny. He'll see it my way."

"He'll see that there's no turning back, now that I've found you."

"I could kill you," he said. His hands were out of sight under the bar. "That would show Johnny I was on the level."

"You can try," I said gently. "but I don't think you'll make it. My hand was already on my gun beneath my coat."

"We can work something out," he said desperately. "I'm supposed to get half of that million dollars when the court declares me dead. Johnny gets the other half. I'll split my half with you. I've already put the restaurant up for sale. We're going to Brazil as soon as I get the half-million."

"And your evidence against Johnny?"

"He gets it back as soon as I get to Brazil. That's the agreement."

I shook my head. "Johnny

Clark is no longer going to let you live to collect your half-million. He doesn't dare let you live.

"He has to. It must have been some kind of mistake with Jerry Dell. All I have to do is talk with Johnny."

Johnson Hails Passage of Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has hailed House passage of a $3.3-billion foreign aid bill as a victory for American foreign policy and the American people.

Final House action on the measure came late Wednesday after Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., was defeated in his efforts to make further cuts in the total which already had been reduced $200 million from Johnson's original "barebones" request for $3.5 billion. The reduction was the smallest since the Korean War.

Johnson promptly issued a statement saying the House action was "in line with the best interests of America and the best interests of the Free World."

"I congratulate the members who backed a measure which was realistically and honestly conceived. This is an important victory for American foreign policy and that means for every American citizen."

Passage came on a 231-174 roll call vote, with 176 Democrats and 55 Republicans voting in favor of the measure. Opposed were 63 Democrats and 111 Republicans.

The appropriations measure which provides the foreign aid money was then sent to the Senate, where the Foreign Relations Committee is working on the President's foreign aid authorization request. This first step merely sets the ceiling on foreign aid spending. Action on the authorization will follow.

Searchers in Mississippi Are Baffled

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi's biggest manhunt searched today for any clue to the baffling disappearance of three civil rights workers.

No hint of the fate of the trio has been uncovered by hundreds of men in a thorough manhunt through east-central Mississippi since the men vanished on the night of June 21.

Art Richardson, public information officer for the State Highway Patrol, said every lead was being pursued until investigators were satisfied with the information obtained.

Michael Schwerner, 24, and Andrew Goodman, 20, both of New York, and James Chaney, 22, a Meridian Negro, were last seen when they posted a $20 bond in Philadelphia after their arrest for speeding.

Sheriff Lawrence Rainey of Neshoba County said Wednesday that Deputy Cecil Price had told him that he had not actually followed the trio when they left the jail.

Previously, Price had said he escorted the trio to the city limits.

The sheriff quoted Price as saying that he saw the station wagon drive away, but instead of following it he answered a city police call to check a report on drag racing.

The charred hulk of the station wagon was found June 23 about 12 miles from Philadelphia.

The search, which involved 400 sailors, was centered in Newton County, immediately south of Neshoba County.

An FBI agent said every road had been searched in Neshoba County. Dragging operations were suspended but a door-to-door search continued.

Senators Split
WASHINGTON (AP) — Arkansas Sens. J. William Fulbright and John L. McClellan split their votes Wednesday night as the Senate defeated an amendment to eliminate the $7,500-a-year salary increases for senators and representatives from a $564 million federal pay raise bill. Fulbright voted for the amendment, McClellan against it. The amendment was beaten 60-25.

Judge Fined, Sentenced in Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — A stunned Oklahoma Supreme Court called on N. S. Corn Wednesday to resign as supernumerary judge after he was sentenced and fined for evading federal income taxes.

The U.S. district attorney said the government also had a witness and documents proving that Corn accepted a $150,000 bribe. Corn had told a grand jury his undeclared income was gambling winnings.

Corn, 80 years old and a member of the high court for a quarter of a century, showed no emotion as he was sentenced in federal court to 18 months in prison and fined $11,250.

The tall, slightly stooped judge served on the Supreme Court from 1934

Thinks Stand in Laos Is Imperative

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—"It is my firm belief the stand the United States has made in Southeast Asia is more than necessary: It is imperative."

Those were the words of Sara C. Klusmann, a Navy wife whose pilot husband is believed to be a prisoner of the Communists.

Lt. Charles F. Klusmann, 30, of San Diego, Calif., was shot down over Laos during a photo reconnaissance mission 24 days ago.

She wrote those words to Adm. U. S. Grant Sharp Jr., commander of the Pacific Fleet, who had sent her a letter pledging that the United States "will make every feasible effort to effect his return."

Mrs. Klusmann's letter, dated June 17, was made available Tuesday after she stood in a Pentagon conference room and accepted the Distinguished Flying Cross for her husband.

She listened as Adm. Claude V. Ricketts, vice chief of naval operations, read a citation praising Klusmann's "extraordinary heroism and achievement."

There were no tears, and she did not change expression, although it seemed her eyes reddened a bit.

Then, in a calm and unemotional tone, Mrs. Klusmann stepped to the microphones and said, simply: "I accept this Distinguished Flying Cross on behalf of my husband with a great deal of pride."

"My only regret is that he could not be here at this moment to accept it himself."

This same even-keeled quality showed through in the letter she wrote to Sharp.

About the only mention of her inner feelings was an acknowledgement of "a terrible shock" on receiving the news that her husband had been shot down.

But, she added, the information she had received on what had happened—and the reasons for Klusmann's missions—"has helped me view the situation with clarity."

"As a citizen, I have long been interested in the struggle against communism in Southeast Asia and elsewhere in the world," she told Sharp.

"My concern is even more acute in light of personal involvement."

Facing God, "and knowledge Chuck believes in what he is doing, have given me strength during this very difficult time," she said.

Cities Asking Money From Legislature

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last in a series of three articles detailing the money problems faced by cities in Arkansas and outlining what the city officials hope to do about them.

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Writer

"Hell, we'd have to be crazy to grab the bit and charge," says Rep. Paul Van Dalsem of Perry County. "We can't go against the will of the people."

It is to the people that most legislators appeal when questioned about municipal money problems.

Mayors and city managers contacted in a survey by The Associated Press said that unless the state provides them with more money, already limited services will be further curtailed.

Some indicated that they believed the Arkansas General Assembly had been slow to respond to municipal problems.

It is true that the legislature has broken no records in passing laws to increase the taxing power of cities or to provide more state revenues for cities.

But the legislature has often referred to voters proposed constitutional amendments that would help cities.

The voters have repeatedly rejected them.

Next November, voters will decide the fate of another proposed amendment to increase the municipal taxing power. It was referred to the ballot by the legislature. If the past foretells the future, the amendment will fail.

Glenn G. Zimmerman, executive director of the Arkansas Municipal League, was asked recently if the U.S. Supreme Court's legislative apportionment decision might help solve city problems.

He replied that he didn't think so.

"We need more statesmen," Zimmerman said. "I mean a guy who will stand up for what he knows to be right even if he has to take some knocks and lumps."

The Legislative Council apparently is laying ground for a push in that direction.

The council's Revenue and Taxation Committee, headed by Sen. Knox Nelson of Pine Bluff, has begun a study of Arkansas cities, their budgets, sources of revenue, expenditures and needs.

It will be several months before the study is completed. The study will include case studies of 14 Arkansas cities, two from each of seven population categories. Nelson said the committee did not yet want to release the names of the cities to be studied.

Rep. Marion H. Crank of Little River County, speaker of the House, said attempts by the legislature to help cities have involved "general legislation." This was attempted through amendments.

"I happen to think that home rule for the cities is a good thing," Crank said. "But the people didn't want cities to set their own taxes. City people didn't want it, either."

Van Dalsem, one of the most powerful legislators (who represents the least populous county), said he also favored home rule for cities.

The Legislative Council study, Crank said, may lead to special legislation for cities—the kind that the legislature has been hesitant to approve in the past.

Van Dalsem said the study also will determine whether cities are using their present sources of revenue to the fullest extent.

It also will seek an explanation of why some cities have privilege and occupational taxes, while other cities do not.

"It is a comprehensive study to get the municipal situation in focus," Crank said.

The problems now critically confronting cities have existed in lesser stages for almost 20 years. Why is the legislature only now taking up a complete study of the situation?

"Something has to be done," Crank said. "We know cities have problems. We want to find out why they have problems and what can be done about it. The general, statewide proposals to help cities haven't gotten

"DEAR ABBY"

REFLECTION AND HAPPINESS

By Abigail Van Buren
Dear Readers Today is a very special day for me. It is my 25th wedding anniversary, and I have this to say:

I was reared in a home with a mother and a father who really loved each other, so I know what love is.

I have seen both a son and a daughter safely through the trials of their tempestuous teens, so I know what satisfaction is.

I have had by my side for 25 years the gentlest, kindest, most considerate human being I have ever known, so I know what happiness is.

I have prayed. And my prayers have been answered, so I know what faith is.

And because I have known all these things, I know what wealth is.

Truly Yours,
Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby: A new family moved into our neighborhood so I called on them and made them feel welcome. I told them if they had children the ages of mine to send them over to play. (I have three boys, 4, 7, and 8.) Well, they have two girls, 11 and 16, who are no company at all for mine. Their 11-year-old started coming to my house every day, pretending to "play" with my 8-year-old boy, but all she does is follow ME around and ask me "questions" until I feel I will go out of my mind! Abby, I don't need an 11-year-old girl friend. She is at my door every time I turn around, and she never goes home until I suggest it. How can I get rid of this little pest?

FRAZZLED NERVES

Dear Frazzled: If you haven't the courage to tell an 11-year-old child that you do not have time to visit with her, then you probably lack the courage to speak to her mother about it, which is my alternate suggestion.

Dear Abby: I recently attended a tea for the wife of a United States Senator. When I arrived I was told (not asked) by one of the guests to take my hat off because the guest of honor was not wearing one. I did not remove my hat because I felt that it was my affair if I chose to wear a hat. I noticed that about two-thirds of the women at the tea were hatless. I felt that the woman who told me to remove my hat was rude, and I am certain that she felt that anywhere, but we can't circumvent the people's will."

Although mayors and city managers occasionally suggest more taxing power for cities, they prefer that their problems be solved through increased state aid. City residents do not look forward to increased taxes.

The legislators, on the other hand, are not inclined toward providing more state revenue for cities at the expense of other programs.

I was rude to keep mine on. In your opinion, who was wrong? STUBBORN IN MONTANA

Dear Stubbhorn The woman who demanded that you remove your hat may have been well-intentioned, but she was out of order. It is conceivable, however, that a hostess might suggest that her guests remove their hats in order to put a hatless guest of honor at ease. And, by the way, a tea such as the one you describe definitely calls for a hat.

Dear Abby: The expression that one's sex education begins with the birds and the bees is classic irony because there is still much mystery surrounding the behavior and habits of birds. Maybe I should disillusion canary owners, Abby, but it is a fact, that a happy canary never sings.

M.R.Z.

Dear M.R.Z. I would like to know WHO, besides another canary, could possibly know how "happy" a canary is? And if a canary sings only when he is miserable, what can you expect from a birdbrain?

Cookouts Are the Thing for Weekend

WEEKLY FOOD REVIEW

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fourth-of-July cookouts this weekend may carry a heavier-than-usual aroma of juicy sirloin and porterhouse steaks. Beef prices are still the top bargain at many food stores.

One national supermarket chain has marked down sirloin to 77 cents at its New York area outlets. Porterhouse is 87 cents a pound at the same meat counters.

Ground beef and roasts are major attractions as record supplies of beef continue.

At fruit and vegetable counters, most plentiful items include the traditional favorites for picnics and cookouts: watermelon and cantaloupe, lettuce and tomatoes, cucumbers and onions, squash and sweet corn.

If you like barbecued chicken, poultry prices should add to your appetite. Fryers are a top choice at many poultry counters.

The potato salad may prove more expensive in some areas. Potato costs are at 8-year high.

However, processors of potato chips, frozen French fries and dehydrated potatoes continue to sell their products at about the same price as a year ago.

Orioles Defeat L.A., Athletics Nip Yankees

By MURRY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mark Sept. 20 down on your calendar, Hank Aguirre. If you maintain your present pace, that's the day you'll win your next game.

Aguirre recorded his second victory of the season Wednesday night, pitching a three-hitter as Detroit stopped Cleveland 3-1.

The 32-year-old left-hander hadn't won for 45 days, or since he beat the Indians 3-1 May 17. And it took him 25 days after his first start this year to earn that triumph.

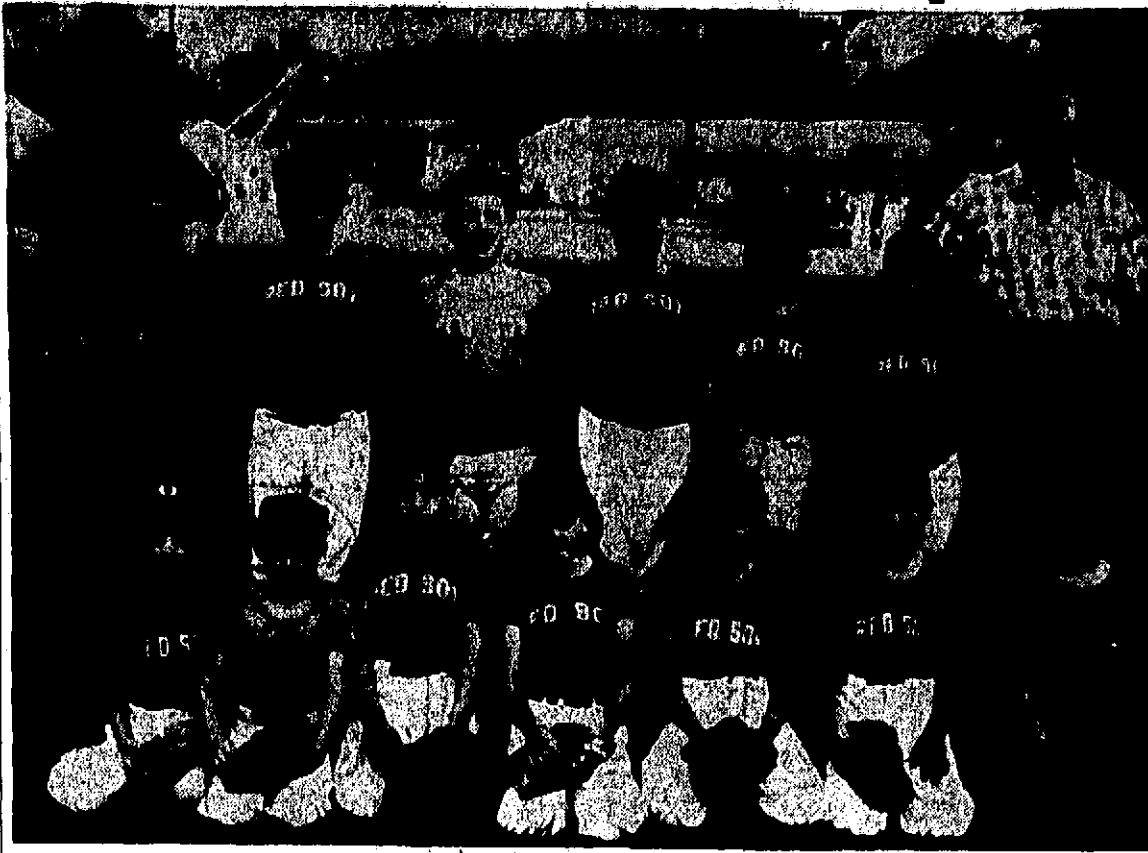

So, working on the rate Aguirre's opponents have burdened him with, he should go 81 days before winning again. The Tigers opponent Sept. 20?

Cleveland, of course.

The season has been extremely frustrating for Aguirre, who won 30 games the two previous years.

Of his first five starts, the Tigers lost three by one run, won another by that margin and tied the fifth. Aguirre's sixth start brought his first victory, but the

Koufax Strikes Out Another 10 for Victory

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sandy Koufax just can't shake Juan Marichal.

Or is it the other way around? Koufax had his greatest season in 1963, winning 25 games. And so did Marichal.

Now Koufax, with seven straight victories, has brought his victory total for this season to 11. And so has Marichal.

Marichal, the right-handed ace of the National League leading San Francisco Giants, got in a little earlier this time, becoming the majors first 11-game winner in a 2-1 day game victory over Pittsburgh Wednesday.

Koufax, the left-handed ace of the eight-place Los Angeles Dodgers, followed suit in a 3-2 night game triumph over Philadelphia that dropped the second-place Phillies 1½ games behind the Giants.

Neither had an easy time of it. Marichal, 11-3 on the season with a 2.38 earned run average, was touched for eight hits. Koufax, 11-4 with a 1.84 ERA, allowed five, including a two-run homer by John Callison that provided the Phillies with an early lead.

Koufax, however, had the more impressive statistics, reaching still another plateau in strikeouts while continuing his winning streak against the Phillies, who have been unable to beat the Dodger dandy since Sept. 27, 1961.

Downing the Phillies for the eighth straight time, including last month's no-hitter, Koufax struck out 10 batters—the fifth time this season he has accomplished that feat and the 56th time in his career. No 10 this time was West Covington.

No. 10 also was No. 1,600 of Koufax career.

Besides Koufax and Marichal, two other pitchers who will be on the National League All-Star team—Chicago's Dick Ellsworth and Houston's Dick Farrell—went after victory No. 11. Neither got it.

Pete Rose's homer in the 10th inning made Ellsworth a loser as Cincinnati edged the Cubs 6-5. Farrell was tagged hard, but escaped without a defeat as the New York Mets pounded out 16 hits and whipped the Colts 8-6.

In the other NL game, Curt Simmons won his ninth game as St. Louis belted Milwaukee 6-1. Baltimore moved four games in the American League by defeating the Los Angeles Angels while second-place New York lost to Kansas City 5-4 in 11 innings. The Chicago White Sox nipped Washington twice, 8-7 and 2-1. Minnesota crushed Boston 14-3 and Detroit beat Cleveland 3-1.

Marichal got all the support he needed in the first two innings as Willie Mays cracked his 23rd homer in the first inning and the Giants scored again in the second against Bob Veale on consecutive doubles by Del Crandall and Jose Pagan.

The Pirates scored in the fifth on a walk, an error and singles by Bill Virdon and Roberto Clemente, but Marichal stopped them the rest of the way.

Callison's homer in the fourth inning, following a triple by Cookie Rojas, gave the Phillies and Dennis Bennett a 2-0 lead. But Bennett, 8-5, couldn't hold it.

The Dodgers scored in the fifth on a walk, John Roseboro's single and a ground out, then pulled ahead with two runs in the sixth on singles by Maury Wills, Willie Davis and Ron Fairly.

Ron Santo hit his 14th and 15th homers and Billy Williams collected his 19th as the Cubs built a 5-1 lead going into the ninth against the Reds.

Errors by Andre Rodgers and Ellsworth led to four unearned

Travs Again Win Over Oklahoma

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—South-paw Billy Smith scattered 10 hits and drove in a run to help the Arkansas Travelers to a 3-2 Pacific Coast League baseball victory over Oklahoma City here Wednesday night.

The Arkansas triumph put the Travelers a half-game back of second-place Oklahoma City and one game behind Denver. Leader in the Eastern Division of the second straight victory over the PCL.

The Travelers, taking their 38th win, made the most of six hits off veteran righthander Ben Johnson, who went the distance for Oklahoma City.

Arkansas scored first in the second inning when Adolfo Phillips walked, Pat Corrales got an infield hit and Smith singled to short right, scoring Phillips.

Oklahoma got all its scoring done in the fourth. Al Heist doubled and Gary Rushing hit his sixth homer of the year.

Americans Ousted in Tennis Play

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Defending champion Margaret Smith of Australia whipped Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., the last American survivor, 6-3, 6-4 today and entered the women's singles final of the Wimbledon Tennis Championships.

Miss Smith, aiming for an unprecedented clean sweep of the world's major singles titles, ran through the match with apparent ease. She played calmly, paced her shots accurately and appeared able to score with overhead shots whenever the ball was within reach.

Miss Moffitt, America's top player since Darlene Hard turned professional, was the last surviving American in the Wimbledon singles competition. Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Tex., the defending men's champion, was eliminated Wednesday by Fred Stolle of Australia 4-6, 10-8, 9-7, 6-4.

Race Peace Returned to St. Augustine

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—Racial peace returned to St. Augustine today after a month of turmoil.

Both sides in the dispute agreed to a truce while a secret biracial committee attempts to find a middle ground.

The truce is aimed at ending for at least two weeks the marathon series of demonstrations that resulted in more than 300 arrests and scores of injuries in brawls on the streets and the beaches.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who is leading the assault against racial barriers here, told a jubilant Negro rally Tuesday night that a victory had been scored.

"The purpose of our direct action was to create a crisis, a tension, to bring our case out in the open, so that they would talk to us about it," he said. "Now they have agreed to do that."

Gov. Farris Bryant said he had named the committee to function until a permanent biracial committee is established as recommended June 18 by a county grand jury. He declined to identify the interim group's members.

King said the committee was made up of two whites and two Negroes. He said their names were withheld to protect them from harassment.

King said he had called a halt to demonstrations to show good faith.

The leaders of white segregationists also accepted the truce. Histed Manucy said a Ku Klux Klan rally scheduled July 4 has been canceled.

Manucy, who disclaims membership in the KKK, advised his followers not to engage in violence during this truce period.

Bucket seats? On the Scout?

There are probably thousands of farmers, construction men and store owners who like the SCOUT because it's a tough, powerful utility vehicle that's easy on gas and goes anywhere.

But we hear from more and more people who bought a SCOUT for pure fun. Outdoor people... suburbanites... hunters and fishermen who don't want to stop going just because they've run out of road.

The sporty bucket seats (and the full width removable back seat) are for them.

And if you think that's getting too fancy for a utility vehicle, take a SCOUT on a pleasure cruise. You never had that much fun with a utility vehicle.
